

A black and white photograph of a stone path lined with street lamps at night. The path is made of rectangular stones and leads into the distance. Several street lamps are visible, some of which are illuminated, casting a soft glow. The background shows silhouettes of trees and buildings. A large, solid red heart is overlaid in the center of the image, partially obscuring the path and the sky. The text "WHERE LOVE BLOSSOMS" is written in white, uppercase letters across the heart.
