

How to stay evergreen?

As you grow older, life throws a lot of challenges at you. Health becomes a major concern. Your children become busy with their lives, leading to the feeling of isolation. And with only a handful of relatives and friends spread far and wide, old age brings with it, a sense of loneliness.

This is where we want to make a difference. Because we look at old age a little differently. We see old age as the time to put your feet up, give up responsibilities and have the time of your life. That's why, Adani Realty, one of India's fastest growing real estate developer, has built The Evergreen, a one-of-a-kind, luxurious residential complex built to redefine Senior Living.

What makes The Evergreen truly unique is the fact that it's a residential community for the elderly within a 600 acre hustling-bustling integrated township with residents from all walks of life. Built to meet every demand and every need old age brings, The Evergreen aims to add comfort, care and a whole lot of fun to the golden years of life.

Stay Young. Stay Happy.

We believe the key to happiness is feeling young and alive. Because, when you feel young at heart, you pursue the things you love to do, go out of your way to meet new people and make the most of every single moment. That's why, when we built The Evergreen, we tried to stay true to our motto: Stay Young. Stay Happy.

Everything we've set out to design and create reflects our philosophy, starting with The Evergreen logo. The choice of font gives a semblance of structure and firmness that age brings, while the vibrant green colour gives a sense of freshness and a feeling of being young at heart. A beautiful evergreen leaf stems out from the font and connotes the feeling we wish to imbibe in all our residents: staying young forever.

To make sure our philosophy gets carried forward to every architectural aspect of The Evergreen, we took the help of Morphogenesis, a globally recognised architecture firm known for their design excellence and Ducon Consultants, one of the best in structure engineering.

Everything you're looking for is here.
Including a whole lot of fun.

To ensure you get everything you want from life and more, we've dedicated 25,000 sq. ft. especially to amenities. From matters of health to the love of fun and games, from space for practising your faith to rooms for guests, from provisions for assisted living to convenience stores that are next door, we have it all covered. And within reach.
